Our interview process

The Values Based Interview (VBI) process is a method of assessing the extent to which a candidate's values align with the organisation's values:

OUR VALUES

Our values are what make Northumbria Healthcare the trust it is. It's important that we all live these values every day. Our values are

RESPECT

Always be respectful towards others and support colleagues to succeed. By displaying this behaviour you will be leading by example and will be a good role model to those around you.

EVERYONE'S CONTRIBUTION COUNTS

Each and every one of you has a part to play in making this trust outstanding. It is important that you all recognise how valued you are and we would encourage you all to take responsibility for developing yourself and encouraging others to do the same.

RESPONSIBILITY AND ACCOUNTABILITY

We are all responsible for the decisions we make and the actions we take. Having positive working relationships both within our own teams and across other teams is important.

PATIENTS FIRST

Always put the needs of the people we care for before anything else. Show empathy in everything you do and deliver the best compassionate care you can. Meet the need for both physical and emotional support.

SAFE AND HIGH QUALITY CARE

Delivering the highest quality and safest care we can is at the heart of everything we do. To achieve this we all need to encourage and be open to participating in continuous improvement.

To improve quality and safety we should all help to generate new ideas and innovations and support others to test their ideas. Look for ways to measure performance so we can act on facts.

Our staff are some of the most satisfied in the country, voting us in the top 20 Trusts in England and recommending us as a good place to work. We see values-based interviewing as a way of maintaining this, as research suggests that people whose personal values match those of their employer will be more satisfied in the long term.

Robust research has proven that values-based interviewing identifies the fit between a candidate and the organisational values and behaviours, helping recruit high performing and effective staff who are most suited to a job in healthcare.

Interviews are just one tool in our selection process, used in conjunction with application forms, reference checks, and other forms of assessment depending on the role.

What to expect from a values-based interview?

If you have been invited for a value-based interview, the first thing to remember is that this interviewing technique is about exploring how and why people do things, rather than just what they would do in any given circumstances.

This will be a structured interview lasting approximately 30/40 minutes, although it could be longer depending on the post you are applying for.

The interviewer will ask you to give examples of real-life situations you have experienced, so we would encourage you to reflect on your experience in advance of the interview and expect to be asked specific questions around situations you have been in. These will link to the organisational values and you can use examples from work, home, university, school etc.

The interview panel will ask at least one question relating to each of the organisational values, which you can familiarise yourself with. They may ask you more than one question per value, depending on the job role and the technical skills required.

Techniques on how to best prepare for a VBI interview:

STAR stands for situation, task, action, result. Using this technique will help you give a brief, coherent, and structured response to interview questions.

Example Video <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IV30jAw7dxA>

Understand what VBI Questions sound like:

Often, these types of questions begin with the phrases "Describe a time when..." or "Give me an example of a situation where."

Examples of Value Based Questions:

Collaboration: Can you give me a recent example where you intentionally enhanced relationship to get a job done?

Adaptability: Tell us about a situation where you failed to communicate appropriately. In hindsight, what would you have done differently?

Innovation: Tell us about a time in which you developed an unconventional approach to solve a problem. How did you develop this new approach? What challenges did you face and how did you address them?

Decisiveness: Tell us about a decision you made that you knew would be unpopular with certain people. How did you handle the decision-making process? How did you handle other people's negative reactions?

Flexibility: Describe a situation in which you changed your approach in the middle of a project. What made you decide to change your approach? How did you work to implement this change smoothly?

Leadership: Describe a time in which you had to improve a team's performance. What challenges did you meet and how did you address them?

The pre-employment check process- keeping our patients safe

Equality, inclusion and diversity

We recognise the positive value of diversity and inclusion and are committed to a workforce that is diverse, equal and inclusive. We welcome and encourage job applications from people of all backgrounds. We particularly welcome applications from Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic (BAME) candidates as BAME people are currently under-represented in our workforce as well as other under-represented groups such as LGBT+ and disabled candidates. We are proud to be a Disability Confident Employer, a Stonewall Diversity Champion, we have a Gold award from the Defense Recognition Scheme, and we are delighted to support Apprenticeships, Age Posi+ive and are a mindful employer. The Trust has a number of equality and diversity networks which provide an opportunity for diverse groups of staff to discuss equality related issues, share good practice, and contribute to Trust policy and consultations. These include the Disability Staff Network and the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender (LGBT) Staff Network.

Positive about disabled people

Northumbria Healthcare Facilities Management are a 'positive about disabled people' employer and we therefore participate in the guaranteed interview scheme. Disabled candidates that select the guaranteed interview scheme option on their NHS jobs application form will be invited to interview if they have demonstrated in their application form that meet all of the minimum essential criteria.

What do we mean by disability?

You're disabled under the Equality Act 2010 if you have a physical or mental impairment that has a 'substantial' and 'long-term' negative effect on your ability to do normal daily activities.

To be eligible for the Interview Guarantee Scheme you must have a disability or long-term health condition that puts you at a significant disadvantage in either obtaining or keeping a job. The disability could be physical, sensory or mental.

You do not have to be registered as a disabled person to apply under this scheme. To apply, simply complete the application form as you would normally and ensure you complete the section within the Monitoring Section as fully as possible and select the guaranteed interview option.

Interview adjustments

We can support a wide range of adjustments to help you be at your best on the day of your interview. If you require any adjustments to your interview please contact Human Resources as soon as possible on 0191 203 1415 – Option 2. You will be put in contact with Michelle Molloy, HR Services Manager, who is our Disability Lead within the Recruitment Team.

Whilst every effort will be made to accommodate requests for adjustments, there may be times when we are unable to fully adhere to such requests (for example reserved car parking allocation).

Adjustments to the job role

If driving is essential to the job role (which would have been confirmed in the job description/person specification) it will be essential that the post holder has a valid driving licence and is either a car owner and able to use the car for work purposes, or has a Trust personal lease vehicle which may be used for the role. However we welcome applications from disabled people and would consider making reasonable adjustments to the role where possible. If you would like to discuss this prior to making an application, please contact Human Resources on 0191 203 1415 – Option 2. You will be put in contact with Michelle Molloy, HR Services Manager.
